Psychotic killers, stalkers, politically corrupt officials and death-threat senders. They're all just part of a typical day in the life of local forensic expert Ron Rice.

Rice returned to his Pembroke office Friday afternoon after visiting a nearby prison where he found a new client.

"I have a guy that very well

If alleged Oklahoma City bomber Timothy McVeigh did indeed commit the crime, he probably did not act alone, said local forensic examiner Ron Rice.

McVeigh is up on federal murder and conspiracy charges for the bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building that killed 169 people, wounded more than 500, and rocked the entire nation in April. If convicted, McVeigh could face the death sentence.
